Gearing up for 2011 Conference of County Bar Leaders

By George A. Verlihay, President
Executive Committee
Conference of County Bar Leaders

The 45th Annual Conference of County Bar Leaders will be held in State College from Feb. 24-26 at The Nittany Lion Inn, a hotel run by Penn State University.

This year's program will be slightly different in that our primary focus will be on bar association leadership and providing the governing officers of local bar associations with important information for leading and protecting their organization. Our programs are designed to help incoming presidents by providing them with the information no one told them about when they agreed to become the president. We will offer assistance and training in the areas of communicating with and expanding your local membership, the fiduciary obligations of local bar association officers and governors, and what the future holds for utilizing technological tools.

You will also be able to learn about the work of the Interbranch Commission and on Saturday morning improve your parliamentary procedure skills in a fun and interactive way. An avoiding malpractice seminar will also be provided. In all, attendees can receive eight

Don Morgan retires as Dauphin Co. Bar executive director

By Nicole R. Antos

Don Morgan, who became executive director of the Dauphin County Bar Association on Jan. 1, 1998, has retired after 13 years of service.

Prior to coming to the DCBA, Morgan completed 25 years with the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General Corps.

During his tenure at the DCBA, Morgan was continually praised for his creative efforts in not only increasing the value of membership but also in facilitating involvement.

Morgan's dedication to the association and its members was evident in not only his attendance at DCBA events but also his encouragement of active participation by his members. To that end, he is credited with finding ways to reduce costs of participation at these events, including subsidizing costs for newly admitted lawyers; moving events, such as the annual and quarterly meetings, to different locations; and holding these events at different times of the day to allow for all to have a better opportunity to attend.

Morgan is also credited with bringing modern technology to the DCBA, including a database management system, blast e-mails and a new website. These upgrades served to further efficiency as well as outreach.

Two other initiatives Morgan was instrumental in bringing to the DCBA include the creation of the Senior Lawyers Section, which provides a social environment for members over the age of 55, and the Capital Area Managing Partners summer program, or CAMP. CAMP is designed to make the capital area legal community more diverse. Morgan visited minority student associations at area law schools to recruit students for internships through the CAMP program.

In February 2009, Morgan was honored by the Conference of County Bar Leaders with its 12th annual Arthur J. Birdsall Award. The award is presented to a county bar executive who demonstrates professional excellence, who is committed to the success of his or her bar association and who significantly enhances the stature of his or her bar association. It is named in honor of Arthur J. Birdsall, the PBA's county bar services director who retired after nearly 40 years of support to local bar associations.

Morgan's achievements as the DCBA executive director have not gone unnoticed, especially by this Dauphin County lawyer. I know I speak for my fellow DCBA members, as well as the PBA and county bar associations across the commonwealth, when I say, to Don, "Thank you" for your years of service, and we wish you well in your future endeavors. ■

Michelle Shuker takes on Dauphin Co. executive director role

Michelle M. Shuker has been named the new executive director of the Dauphin County Bar Association. She had previously been the PBA director of County Bar Services for four and a half years. Shuker is excited to follow in the able footsteps of Don Morgan, who has retired following 13 years in the position. (See related article above on his retirement.) Shuker assumed her new duties on Jan. 3.

As most of you know, while working at PBA, Shuker acted as liaison to the county bar associations across Pennsylvania. She looks forward to applying her experiences to the Dauphin County Bar Association.

Shuker earned her undergraduate degree from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania and her law degree from the Duquesne University School of Law. She has been a licensed Pennsylvania attorney for the past 15 years.

According to a DCBA press release, a search committee, consisting of the current association officers and 12 of the past 14 presidents, was formed in April. After advertising the position in early June, the search committee eventually narrowed the field to six finalists, who were interviewed on Sept. 29. On Oct. 14, the Board of Directors approved the recommendation of the committee to hire Shuker as the next executive director.

As the new DCBA executive director, Shuker will not be traveling to each county in the state, but you can be sure she will be sighted at all of the major PBA events. ■

Nicole Antos is new PBA director of County Bar Services

The PBA has hired attorney Nicole R. Antos as director of County Bar Services. Antos takes the position formerly held by Michelle Shuker. (See related article on page 4 on Shuker's new position.)

This is not Antos' first experience with PBA, as she previously worked on a temporary basis as the Young Lawyers Division coordinator and most recently as staff counsel to the Constitutional Review Commission. While working for the PBA CRC, Antos was also employed by local Harrisburg law firm Andreozzi & Associates, specializing in family law.

Antos is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State University, as well as Penn State's Dickinson School of Law.

While in law school, Antos spent two years interning at the Cumberland County District Attorney's Office. Upon graduation, she accepted a position with the commonwealth at the Workers' Compensation Appeal Board. She also spent a short time with the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania, where she acted as Pennsylvania Victory Coalitions director.

Antos brings these varied work experiences, as well as years of involvement with both the Pennsylvania and Dauphin County bar associations, to the PBA. She said that she welcomes the opportunities the County Bar Services position presents and looks forward to traveling to every county across the commonwealth. ■

Delaware Co. Bar Association selects new executive director

The Delaware County Bar Association's board of directors has selected William L. Baldwin to serve as the association's next executive director. He steps into the role left vacant in June following the death of Elizabeth C. Price, who was the DCBA executive director for 36 years.

Baldwin, a longtime Delaware County resident and graduate of Temple University School of Law, most recently served as deputy director for Laurel House, a domestic violence nonprofit based in Norristown. Previously, he served as legal services director for Laurel House from 2003-2009 and as legal services director of the Delaware County Domestic Abuse Project from 1993-2000.

Baldwin has won numerous awards and honors, including the McEwen Award for service to crime victims.

According to an article in The Legal Intelligencer, a Philadelphia legal newspaper, DCBA President Bruce E. Rodger said finding someone to follow

Price, who has been credited with turning what was essentially intended as an executive assistant role into an executive position, was a daunting task.

"When Betty Price passed away, she had been such a rock star and an institution here in Delaware County that we really had to sit down and figure out how we were going to find a successor," Rodger told the Intelligencer. "One of the key and smartest realizations we came to was that we would never be able to replace Betty."

Rodger said that soon after Price's death he appointed a committee of officers within the bar association to draft an executive director job description, the Intelligencer reported.

The duties include, among other task, scheduling meetings and functions, supervising budgeting and accounting, implementing policies, writing press releases and leading technological initiatives.

A separate committee figured out how to advertise the position and narrow the pool of 120 applicants down to 12 semifinalists, each of whom were interviewed by the committee as a whole, Rodger told the Intelligencer.

That group was narrowed down to two applicants, who were then interviewed by the bar association's board of directors, according to the newspaper.

"Bill survived that scrutiny process," Rodger told the Intelligencer. "He is a very bright guy, he's a lawyer and he has a great deal of training in the management of nonprofit organizations."

Baldwin assumed his duties at the DCBA on Jan. 3. ■

Message from the YLD chair

By Lisa M. B. Woodburn

The PBA Young Lawyers Division has been busy!

We are hosting nearly one Heroes event each week in counties throughout the state. It is our goal to reach out to counties that have volunteer fire companies and EMS squads. This program offers us a great opportunity to give back to first responders – those who arrive when we are in need or when we call 911 for a medical emergency, fire, etc. Some of those who come to our aid, many of whom volunteer, don't have the necessary, basic estate documentation that would allow them to make sure their children and loved ones are cared before a tragedy strikes. We have the basic tools to do this, so let's give back!

Wills for

If you are in a county that doesn't have this program and want it, please let me know, and we will do our best to work with your local bar association and get them on board with our program. We aren't taking business from lawyers, because this is business we never had and will never get. We are doing a public service to those who save lives. You never know when you might need help from first responders!

We have also been actively working on our new program, the Bar Passage Mentoring Program, set to launch in July 2011. The program pairs lawyers with law students studying for the bar with the sole focus of mastering the essay portion of the bar exam. This is an area where traditional bar preparation courses are lacking. Law students are graduating these days with tremendous debt and no jobs or jobs that pay what seasoned legal staff are making. This is yet another opportunity for us to improve the legal profession and also encourage the law students whom we mentor to get involved by joining our local and state bar associations and give back as they have received.

Finally, in anticipation of a new Pennsylvania government and in support of the PBA's legislative grassroots effort, the PBA YLD hosted its first of hopefully many Young Lawyer/Young Legislator events. A joint reception was held in conjunction with PBA Committee/Section Day in November 2010. Young lawyers are the future leaders in many social and community organizations, and young legislators are the future leaders in government. Together, we can do many great things! ■

PBA Board of Governors approves diversity initiatives

■ The diversity team of volunteer members will work collaboratively with PBA leadership, staff and other PBA related groups to promote and enhance diversity.

At its Nov. 17 meeting in Harrisburg, the PBA Board of Governors unanimously approved the recommendations of the PBA Diversity Task Force for the retention of a diversity officer and the creation of a permanent PBA diversity team to improve diversity in the commonwealth's legal profession.

The diversity officer will be an independent contractor charged with keeping diversity issues and challenges on the front burner for the PBA, the Pennsylvania Bar Institute, Pennsylvania's law schools, local and specialty bar associations and law firms.

The diversity team of volunteer members will work collaboratively with PBA leadership, staff and other PBA related groups to promote and enhance diversity. The team also will work with the new PBA diversity officer, the PBA executive director and other PBA staff to devise and assist with the implementation of a diversity plan for the PBA with benchmarks that will be used to gauge the effectiveness of the diversity officer.

The diversity team will consist of 13 diversity "ambassadors" including a chair and vice chair and a member appointed by and from each of the following: PBA Civil & Equal Rights Committee, PBA Gay and Lesbian Rights Committee, PBA Legal Services to Persons with Disabilities Committee, PBA Minority Bar Committee, PBA Commission on Women in the Profession, Conference of County Bar Leaders, PBA Solo and Small Firm Practice Section, PBA Young Lawyers Division and PBA Leadership Training and Recruitment Committee. The PBA president will appoint the chair, vice chair and two diversity ambassadors, and the chair and vice chair position will rotate between the PBA at-large governors at the discretion of the PBA president.

Last May, then-PBA President Clifford E. Haines and then-PBA-elect Gretchen A. Mundorff formed the PBA Diversity Task Force to examine the structure of the PBA and provide recommendations for ways to promote, increase and maintain diversity in its leadership positions and membership through the organization.

The task force was specifically charged with developing a diversity plan to recommend modifications to institutional practices and structural elements of the PBA to respond to the changing demographics of the legal profession in Pennsylvania and to improve opportunities for underrepresented members to participate in leadership roles within the PBA. The task force, under the leadership of co-chairs Samuel T. Cooper III and William H. Pugh V has met more than 25 times since its creation. The task force will assist the PBA diversity team with setting up bylaws and operating procedures subject to the approval of the Board of Governors. The diversity team will operate under the procedures of a committee as defined by the PBA bylaws. ■

New web-based Lawyer Referral Service

The Butler County Bar Association has partnered with technical and Web marketing firm Impactiv Inc. to offer a new web-based Lawyer Referral Service on its website, www.butlercountypabar.org. The new LRS search directory enables prospective clients to search for individual BCBA member attorneys by both practice area and location. The search results are displayed in random sort order so that each attorney profile has an equal opportunity to be displayed at the top of the list for a given set of search criteria. It's a win-win for the public and BCBA members: The public now has a better source for making informed choices and member attorneys have an affordable way to advertise their services. The new automated LRS is also expected to make the referral process much more efficient for the small bar association, which has a limited staff to take referral requests by phone.

Members may also opt into a very

Lebanon

'Celebrate the Constitution'

The Lebanon County Bar Association provided materials and presentations to more than 300 Lebanon County students as part of the PBA's "Celebrate the Constitution" program, from September through December. Members from both the bench and bar travelled to local schools to speak about the Constitution. Students participated in a mock Constitution signings and received pocket-sized Constitution booklets donated by the PBA.

Donation to Domestic Violence Intervention of Lebanon County

The LCBA's Public Relations Committee recently donated $1,000 to Domestic Violence Intervention of Lebanon County. Jason Schibinger, president of the board of directors of Domestic Violence Intervention, said, "DVI has had the support of the Lebanon County Bar Association for the past several years and will utilize the funds to help support our many programs which are vital to the community.”

DVI’s services include a 24-hour hotline, crisis shelter, residential and nonresidential counseling for adults and children, and medical and legal advocacy for victims.

100 years of incorporation

On Sept. 19, the LCBA marked 100 years of incorporation. Its origins, however, go back to 1813, when the Lebanon courts were still part of the Lancaster region. The current bar membership celebrated with a look back at the last 100 years during “An Evening at the Lebanon Historical Society” on Nov. 18. LCBA President Timothy Engler opened the evening with remarks about the history of the association and the growth it has enjoyed over the years. Historical Society volunteer Barbara Gaffney gave remarks about the society and how it relates to the bar association. Association artifacts that are housed in the building were featured throughout the auditorium and remain on display to the public. The evening concluded with self-guided tours.

Family ‘adopted’ for holiday

This past holiday season, a family in need received gifts on their wish lists thanks to the generosity of the LCBA’s Women Lawyers’ Committee and its Adopt-a-Family program. The family was identified by Lebanon County Children and Youth Services. The committee raised more than $1,000, and many of the gifts were purchased outright by committee members. Others were purchased from donations by individual members. The committee purchased most of the requested items and also included gift cards that enabled the family to buy food, clothing and toys for themselves this holiday season.

The organizations, which collaborated in the spring of 2010 to address cyber safety, will create a multi-media presentation, DVD production and website, titled NoTxt.Me. This electronic media will be distributed to all middle schools throughout the Greater Lehigh Valley. It is expected to reach over 12,000 students.

NoTxt.Me is expected to be completed by the spring of 2011.

Luzerne

Charitable Foundation supports Women with Children Program

The Luzerne County Bar Association Charitable Foundation recently presented a $1,000 check to the Misericordia University

Women with Children (WWC) program. WWC was established in 2000 to provide support to women and their children by helping them realize their full potential through higher education. The program provides support, services, housing and financial aid for academically qualified single mothers who are determined to complete their undergraduate degree.

Monroe

Mock Trial Invitational

Teams representing high schools from Monroe County and surrounding areas participated in the annual Mock Trial Invitational on Nov. 20 at East Stroudsburg High School South. The first-place team was Valley View High School. Second place went to Wallenpaupak High School, and third place was awarded to Notre Dame. Each team received a monetary prize that is to be used to enhance mock trial activities at their individual schools.

The teams were advised by attorneys who worked with high school coaches. The mock trial tournament was judged by volunteer Monroe County Bar Association attorneys.

December Activities

The 16th annual Red Cross Blood Drive, sponsored by the Young Lawyers Division of the MCBA in honor of the late attorney Phil Mattes, was held on Dec. 6 at a Stroudsburg church. Mattes was a longtime donor and founding member of the YLD division of the Lackawanna Bar Association, in addition to being a member of the MCBA. Many people turned out in response to the call to donate blood.

On Dec. 11, the MCBA hosted its annual Holiday Gathering at Mountain Springs Lake Resort in Reeders. Over 80 people, members and spouses, enjoyed the music, dancing and delicious cuisine. It was a pleasure to enjoy the company of PBA President Gretchen A. Mundorff and her husband, Donald Heckathorne, at the event.

On Dec. 13, the MCBA sponsored the Swearing In Ceremony for attorneys who passed the bar and wished to be admitted to the county bar association. Following the ceremony in historic Courtroom One, new members and their families, judges, MCBA members and guests were invited to attend an open house and reception at the MCBA bar center.

Montgomery

Holiday contributions

The Montgomery Bar Association ended 2010 on a positive note, making substantial and timely holiday contributions to a variety of local causes. A $5,000 holiday donation was made to St. John's Soup Kitchen in Norristown, while another gift of $10,000 was made to support the Laurel House, a domestic violence agency and shelter serving individuals, families and communities throughout Montgomery County.

The MBA's Young Lawyers Section again partnered with area law firms and collected gifts and financial contributions for the U.S.O. at Naval Air Station – Joint Reserve Base Willow Grove as part of their annual HOLIDAYS for HEROES campaign. Donations were collected at the bar building and in lieu of admission to the section's annual holiday party. Also, in light of the imminent scheduled base closure in 2011, MBA leadership approved a special, one-time contribution of $3,000 to the cause to help ensure a successful 2010 campaign for the troops. Since the launch of HOLIDAYS for HEROES in 2007, the MBA and its partners have raised upwards of $30,000 for locally-based troops deployed overseas and their families.

Northampton

Bench Bar Conference in D.C.

The Northampton County Bar Association recently held its Bench Bar Conference in Washington, D.C., along with the swearing-in ceremony at the Supreme Court of the United States. The conference opened with a guided tour of the Capitol. After the tour, the CLE programs began at the host location of the law firm of Skadden Arps in D.C. The opening speaker was attorney Gregory Craig, former White House counsel to President Obama. A reception and dinner were held at the National Press Club and included a lively program by the NCBA's very own "The Not Ready for Broadway Players."

On the Monday following the conference, 30 NCBA members were admitted to the Supreme Court of the United States. Following the swearing-in ceremony, they were privileged to meet Chief Justice John Roberts, Associate Justice Samuel Alito and Associate Justice Sonia Sotomayor.

Eagles bus trip

The Activities Committee made what turned out to be a very popular decision when, earlier in the year, it decided to schedule a bus trip to the Philadelphia Eagles v. New York Giants football game in Philadelphia. After a great time tailgating, NCBA members were not disappointed as the Eagles beat the Giants 27-17.

Pike

Pike Bar gives special gifts to CD D kids

Santa Claus delivered more than 147 Christmas presents to children served by the Center for Development Disabilities in early December at an annual Christmas Party sponsored by the Pike County Bar Association. The gifts were donated by the bar association, and many had been purchased at Milford's The Firefly Toy Store, which provided a discount.

The association has participated in the CDD gift-giving for many years under a program started and sponsored by late Milford attorney and humanitarian Jack Linshaw, a past PCBA president.

Schuylkill

SCBA fundraisers aid community

Thanks to the efforts of the Schuylkill County Bar Association's Public Relations/Community Development Committee, the association held several fundraisers and activities to benefit the community in 2010. The SCBA collected more than 1,000 canned food items, diapers and baby food during its annual canned food drive on May 21 in conjunction with Boyer's Market, Orwigsburg. The association also held annual coat drives, a children's bicycle drive and a breast cancer awareness event in 2010.

The SCBA's Public Relations/Community Development Committee is co-chaired by attorneys Sud Patel and Eric Lieberman. ■

PBA Constitutional Review Commission revises dates of public hearings on Judiciary, Legislative Reapportionment

The PBA Constitutional Review Commission's Judiciary Committee and Legislative Reapportionment Committee, which are charged with reviewing the Pennsylvania Constitution and recommending ways to improve state government, have revised their schedules for public hearings. Several meetings of the Judiciary Committee have been cancelled but may be rescheduled at a later date, and the Legislative Reapportionment Committee has cancelled its meeting in Erie.

The revised schedule appears below, but please visit the commission's website at www.pabar.org/crc for the most up-to-date information on the public hearings.

"These hearings are valuable opportunities for citizens to provide information that will help shape the committee's recommendations to improve the structure and operation of government in the commonwealth," said PBA President Gretchen A. Mundorff. "If the members of the commission's committees conclude that changes are needed based on public input and members' own findings, they will offer suggestions for enacting legislation, amending the state's Constitution or convening a Constitutional Convention."

"It's important that we hear all points of view during the hearing process," said James Gardner Colins, a former Commonwealth Court president judge and Philadelphia lawyer who is chairing the commission. "The constitutional scholars, practicing lawyers, sitting judges and public policy experts serving on our commission want to take a broad view and consider the multitude of ideas and opinions that could improve our commonwealth."

The Judiciary Committee's revised public hearing schedule follows. The hearings will be held from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

- Jan. 19, University of Pittsburgh School of Law. Cancelled. May be rescheduled.
- Feb. 16, Dickinson School of Law, Penn State University, State College. Cancelled. May be rescheduled.

PBA launches exclusive Lawyer-to-Lawyer Network

The PBA has launched the Lawyer-to-Lawyer Network, a new service available exclusively to PBA members. This service will give PBA members the option of being listed in an online database accessible through the PBA website that can be searched for free by other members looking for attorneys in a specific practice area and/or geographic location.

“The Lawyer-to-Lawyer Network has the potential to be a valuable marketing tool for lawyers and their firms and can provide desirable statewide recognition for any law practice,” said PBA Executive Director Barry M. Simpson.

From January through June 2011, members can sign up to be listed in the database free-of-charge and will be able to select listings of up to five practice areas. After July 1, 2011, there will be a $100 annual fee to be listed on the network.

Registering for the Lawyer-to-Lawyer Network database is quick and easy and can be done via the PBA website at www.pabar.org. Look for the link to the network on the horizontal navigation bar above the news items on the website’s main page. Questions about the network should be directed to the PBA Member Service Center at 800-932-0311. ■

Birdsall County Bar Impact Grant application deadline is March 31

The Birdsall Impact Grant program seeks to assist county bar associations in the furtherance of a charitable, educational or pro bono program or project or the enhancement of an existing charitable, educational or pro bono program or project that succeeds in making an immediate impact on the way a county bar operates in service to its members, its court and its community.

If your county bar association is interested in applying for grants funds, please complete the Birdsall County Bar Impact Grant Application. The deadline for submission is March 31.

A five-person grant evaluation committee comprised of Pennsylvania Bar Foundation members appointed by the foundation president and the Conference of County Bar Leaders Executive Committee will evaluate submissions and select a recipient(s) to share in a grant(s) totaling not more than $1,000. The successful applicant(s) will be notified in writing on or before April 15, and the grants will be awarded during the Annual Meeting of the foundation Board of Directors and members on May 5 in Philadelphia in conjunction with the 2011 Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Bar Association.

The program is open to all bar associations, with consideration given to those with limited means.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Pennsylvania Bar Foundation Executive Director E. Marie Queen at 888-238-3036 or info@pabarfoundation.org. ■

Supreme Court of Pa. calls on lawyers to provide more public service

Chief Justice of Pennsylvania Ronald D. Castille has issued a call to Pennsylvania’s 70,000 lawyers to volunteer more of their time and donate more of their money to help ensure Pennsylvanians with limited finances receive needed representation during “a civil legal aid crisis.”

Justice Castille wrote in a Jan. 7 letter to lawyers, “Pro bono service by Pennsylvania’s lawyers cannot be a replacement for adequate funding of the courts and the legal aid system, but the need for help among the poor to access justice is so significant that the legal community cannot wait for the funding deficiencies to be remedied.”

“The time has never been more critical for lawyers to provide pro bono legal service to the poor and the underserved of our Commonwealth,” said PBA President Gretchen A. Mundorff, who last year urged all Pennsylvania lawyers to take at least one new pro bono matter or to continue to work on an ongoing pro bono matter through a legal aid provider or an organized pro bono program. If unable to take on pro bono matters, Mundorff, like Justice Castille, has asked lawyers to make financial donations to support local or statewide civil legal aid and pro bono programs.
